Application Process: To get started, simply mark the appropriate transaction type(s) you are requesting (see below) and complete all required sections of the application as they apply to the permit transaction(s) you are requesting. In each section of the application you will find references to important prerequisites that must be met to successfully complete your application process. You must be complete with your information, as all requested information must be provided. Incomplete applications will be returned for completion before any processing will occur.

All applications must be submitted to your nearest Department of Fish and Game (Department) regional office with a check or money order payable to the Idaho Department of Fish and Game for the amount required for the permit transaction(s) you are requesting. Applications will not be processed without remittance of required permit fees. Most permit applications can be processed through the mail after required prerequisites have been met. When a permit transaction requires a facility inspection, a Department representative will contact you to coordinate a convenient time to complete the inspection.

If you have any difficulty completing the application or have any additional questions, please contact your nearest Department regional office for assistance.

Permit Expiration:

Apprentice, General and Master Falconry Permits expire three (3) years from date of issue.

Classification Upgrades expire when the falconry permit being upgraded is already scheduled to expire.

Eagle Falconry Permit Validations expire when the Master Falconry Permit being validated is already scheduled to expire.

Nonresident Temporary Permits expire in the amount of days requested up to a maximum of 120 consecutive days or at the end of the calendar year. Temporary permits may be re-issued for additional days at the discretion of the Department on a case-by-case basis.

General Regulation Information:

Permit Required: All raptors classified under the Families Falconidae, Strigidae and Accipitridae are regulated by Idaho law, to include exotics and hybrids thereof. No person may possess raptors without possessing a valid falconry permit of the appropriate class or type.

Age Requirements: Falconry may be practiced by any person that is 12 years of age or older. General class falconers must be at least 16 years of age, and master class falconers must have a minimum of five (5) years experience at the general class level. Falconry permit applicants that are under 18 years of age are required to have the approval of a parent or legal guardian to practice falconry.

New Residents to Idaho and Transfers of Previously Held Falconry Permit Classification: Falconers licensed/permitted in other states, territories or countries that possess raptors and decide to reside in the state of Idaho, must purchase an Idaho Falconry Permit within 30 days. Idaho falconry permits may be obtained by submitting an application, required fee(s) and supporting documentation in the form of other state, territory or country permits that support the issuance of the permit class being requested. Applicants possessing nonresident state, territory or country permits that have been expired for more than five (5) years will be required to pass the state falconry exam. Once an Idaho falconry permit(s) is issued (not to include Temporary Falconry Permits), permits previously held in other states, territories, or countries must be surrendered and become void.

Temporary Visitors to Idaho Possessing or Importing Raptors: Falconers possessing valid falconry licenses/permits issued in other states, territories or countries may lawfully import and/or possess raptors on a temporary basis for up to 30 days without having to purchase any additional form of Idaho permit, with one exception. Falconers importing raptors from another country must first obtain an Idaho Wildlife Import Permit by making application to:

Idaho Department of Fish and Game
Wildlife Health Lab
16569 S. 10th Avenue
Caldwell, ID 83607
(208) 454-7646

Once an Idaho Wildlife Import Permit has been approved, falconers from other countries must also comply with U.S. Customs and U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service wildlife import requirements prior to entering the United States.

Nonresident falconers having a need to remain in Idaho for more than 30 days, with no intention of becoming state residents, may purchase a Temporary Falconry Permit. Temporary Falconry Permits allow nonresidents to lawfully possess, transport and house raptors that are authorized under the class of falconry permit held in their resident state, territory or country. A nonresident hunting license and other required permits/validations are required to fly/hunt raptors on wildlife. Temporary possession of raptors for more than 120 days requires raptor housing in facilities that have been inspected and approved by a Department representative. Temporary Falconry Permits may be requested by submitting an application along with required prerequisite documents (See Section V of application.)

Inspection of Facilities and Equipment: Facilities and required equipment, in compliance with state and federal regulations, must be inspected and approved by a Department representative any time an applicant is applying for his/her first or initial state falconry permit, there is a change of facility location to a new address, or a nonresident falconer possesses a raptor under a Temporary Falconry Permit for more than 120 days.

Permit renewals, eagle validations and permit classification upgrades do not require a mandatory facility-equipment inspection; however, inspections may be required at the discretion of any issuing Department representative. If your application requires an inspection, your facilities must be ready to house raptors and you must be prepared to produce an adequate weighing scale/balance, leash, swivel, bath container, jesses or the materials to make them.

Applicants intending to house raptors at another person's address/property, must submit a signed and dated letter from the property owner or lessee stating that he/she authorizes Department inspections of the facilities and raptors at any reasonable time of day with the property owner or applicant present. Birds will not be handled or individually inspected without the permit holder present.
